Welcome Jason Scott Weinstein, PhD!

Effective August 1, 2018, Jason Scott Weinstein, PhD will join the Center for Immunity and Inflammation and the Department of Medicine as an Assistant Professor and Chancellor Scholar. Dr. Weinstein is currently an Instructor in the Department of Internal Medicine, Section of Rheumatology, at Yale University School of Medicine. Dr. Weinstein's current research is primarily focused on understanding how the signals from $CD4^+$ T cells that regulate B cells in the chronic autoreactive state compare to those in an acute infectious response, and how these adaptive immune cells malfunction in the germinal center response in autoimmunity.